Tides turn in harbor's favor

Dredging to begin Oct. 1

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

There's bad news and good news for Cohasset sailors.

The bad news is that, despite the town's best efforts to see the harbor dredged last fall, things will not be better for the summer 2015 season. Commercial and recreational boats will still have to structure their sailing time around the tides or risk getting stuck in the harbor shallows.

The good news is that we are back on track for seeing the harbor taken care of in the coming fall. Town Manager Chris Senior promised the town would be "first in line" when bidding season rolled around in spring, and so we are. Bids opened on Friday, April 17. Bidders have 30 days to act. The town should have a contractor on board by early June. Last fall, the town planned to see the harbor dredged well before this summer. Unfortunately, storms such as Nemo and Sandy had wrought havoc across the Northeast, and Cohasset was forced to take a back seat to other communities that the Army Corps of Engineers deemed to be in more dire need.

Cohasset's need, however, was dire even before the storms. The harbor has not been dredged since 2000 and is long overdue.

Lobstermen and recreational boaters alike have to monitor the tides so they don't get stranded inside or outside the harbor, which is in dire need of dredging.

STORE CLOSES

The best of All the Best

Bigley reflects on 12 years in business

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

For 12 years, All the Best Natural Foods was a bit of a pillar, propping up the very edge of the village before it tapers into neighborhoods - first, as one of the shops at 1 Pleasant Street, then at the location across from the post office.

And then, very suddenly, it wasn't. Owner David Bigley announced the store's closing last Wednesday, and within a week, All the Best was empty. Friends and customers carried goods out in tote bags, which Bigley allowed them to fill for $25 each. The rest was donated to Wellspring or transported to Bigley's house nearby.

"The amount of love and well-wishes I got over those two days was phenomenal... overwhelming," Bigley gushed over a black coffee in French Memories a week after his store closed. He's still grieving, of course, but he continually steered the conversation around to the silver linings. "I got, literally, hundreds of hugs."

"I had a good run," said Bigley, but he didn't want to drag out the store's inevitable closing - and it was inevitable after snow ground business to a halt in February. The store was already struggling and didn't have the cushion to weather the calm after the storm.

HEALTH BOARD

Big scrubs to fill

Long-timer won't seek reelection

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

There's an election race you might not know about: the appointment of a new member to the Board of Health.

The Board of Health comprises three members, and this year they are saying goodbye to chairman Peggy Chapman, who has served for five terms - that's 15 years. Harvey Dickstein and Lynn Doney are competing for the open seat, which will be determined on May 9 at Town Election.

Once the new member rounds out their number, the Board will vote one member to serve as chairman.

The Board of Health isn't just about flu clinics and health fairs, although that's part of it. "The Board of Public Health would be a better name," said Board member Robin Lawrence, who has served nearly six terms. "We really deal with public health issues."

For instance, the Board collaborates with the water department to prevent and treat waterborne illnesses. Once upon a time, they were responsible for a lot more water management and evaluation than they are now, so Chapman and the Board invested in teaching water sampling skills to high school students at the Center for Student Coastal Research.

The Board deals with stormwater overflow, septic systems, capping

Season starts for door-to-door selling complaints

Solicitation bylaw in effect since 2006

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

Most residents welcome spring because it means Daylight Saving Time, flowers, green grass, and Little League games.

But most Cohasseters don't feel that way about door-to-door solicitors. In fact complaints about them pepper the police/fire log once spring arrives and continue throughout the summer.

However, under the town's 2006 Solicitation Bylaw unregistered solicitors either have to sign up or leave town.

Police stopped two solicitors for a large cable company last week on Norman Todd Road. The man is 33 and from Everett and the woman is 24 and from Sudbury, police said.

While some solicitors go elsewhere when learning they have to register with the police, this duo is now going through the process.

But under the bylaw, solicitors are required to register with the police and apply for a $25 license.

They are required to wear a badge issued by the police that includes their name and photograph. In addition

Under the bylaw, solicitors are required to register with the police and apply for a $25 license.

solicitors provide police with their name, address, date of birth and height, weight and eye color, social security number; dates and times of canvassing activities; name and address of employer; and a brief description of the purposes of the solicitation.

Exceptions to the bylaw are town, state or federal officers or employees on official business; minors under 18 unless in connection with a commercial activity; candidates for public office or campaign workers; those promoting political causes and those soliciting for charitable organizations unless those solicitors are paid.

Two-car crash

An 80-year-old Marshfield woman was transported to the hospital on Thursday (April 16) around 3 p.m. following a two-car crash at Chief Justice Cushing Highway (Route 3A) and lower King Street, police said.

Police said a 2014 Porsche, operated by a 75-year-old Cohasset woman, pulled out of lower King Street to head south (toward Scituate) in front of a 2007 Honda, operated by the Marshfield woman. Both cars were towed. The operator of the Porsche was cited for failure to yield, police said.

Past larceny

A 56-year-old teacher at the middle-high school reported last Friday that $70 from her pocketbook in the closet in her classroom was stolen. Police said there are no suspects at this time; the school is also investigating and police are awaiting more information.

No guns

On a request from the ATF (Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms) who had a report from a named caller from out-of-state, police investigated allegations of a cache of illegal guns in a Cohasset home last week. Investigation revealed the allegations were unfounded, police said.

Book fair

Police said a 37-year-old Osgood teacher questioned a man who went to the school on Tuesday afternoon (April 14) in a light blue car to attend the children's book fair. Police said she told him the book fair was not open to the public and he left.

ID theft

A Fair Oaks Lane man reported that his wife filed their income taxes with the IRS electronically. The IRS notified them the following day that the tax forms were rejected because they had already been filed. They were provided with an identity theft packet and were told to notify the IRS that they may be victims of potential fraud.

Intoxicated

Police responded to a call at 10 p.m. on Friday (April 17) on Lothrop Lane and located a 15-year-old girl who was displaying the signs and symptoms of intoxication. There was no car there. She was turned over to her mother, police said.

Crash

At 12:03 a.m. on Sunday (April 19), police responded to a car crash on North Main Street near Jason Road. Police said the 22-year-old operating a 2004 Ford Ranger pickup truck dropped something on the passenger-side floor and was trying to retrieve it when she lost control of her truck. She veered off the road and into a utility pole. There was significant damage to her truck which was towed. She was cited for marked lanes violation.

FIRE DEPT.

Facts about burning permits

1. The 2015 Open Air Burning Season will close on Friday, May 1.

2. Residents must obtain a permit to burn during the season, and register their permit number each day they wish to burn when burning is being allowed.

3. The Fire Department uses a web-based system (cohassetma.org) for residents to obtain and register their burning permit for the season. Once on the website, select the Burn Permit Registration and fill out the registration form and submit the $10 fee via credit card. Once payment has been received the system will generate a permit number to use for the entire 2015 Open Air Burning Season.

4. Residents wishing to burn need to check the Town website (cohassetma.org) and select Check to see if burning is allowed and activate one's permit. This selection will say if burning is being allowed for the day and will allow residences to register their permit number for the day.

SCHOOLS

Kindergarten enrollment growth spurt

The kindergarten classroom is having a growth spurt.

This year, the class was 73 students strong, including six who were enrolled in the half-day program. Next year's class already has 92 enrollments (again including six half-day students). That's a growth of almost 20 children – and there are sure to be more, said Superintendent Barbara Cataldo.

The census shows 20 students who have not yet registered for kindergarten. Cataldo said she will be investigating those families' intentions for the fall, adding that 26 of the students already registered aren't even reflected on the census.

So far, only one Boston student has enrolled, but the district is bound to see at least one more added to that number.

Cataldo projected that, at maximum, Osgood could be looking at an influx of up to 112 students next fall, but the Board believes the final number will be much lower due to factors like private school enrollment.

Still, it will be a hefty class no matter what, with students spanning a 16-month age range. Board member Dr. Helene Lieb pointed out that this is not unusual; it's common for boys to start kindergarten later than girls for developmental reasons. It will also be important to determine how many students will require Individualized Education Programs (IEPs), which could call for additional resources from the district.

COASTAL NETWORK

Local women, their achievements in spotlight

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

Girls just want to have fun, and the women of the Coastal Professional Women's Network (CPW Net) are having plenty of it. They meet once a month at the Paul Pratt Memorial Library to share stories and support. Plus, there are social events peppered throughout the year, especially heading into summer.

When the women of CPW Net gather – often at Tosca's and other local businesses – they bypass the normal conventions of small talk and dig right in to life's nitty gritty. The questions being asked around the table aren't, "tell me about your kids," but "tell me about what you do." It gives women from very different walks of life the opportunity to share their stories where their paths intersect.

"It's very personal," said Lydia Hatton, who is in charge of communications for the group. "We let it all hang out."

The group's goal is to "connect, enrich and inspire" professional, working women in Cohasset and neighboring towns. It's clear they have been doing exactly that over the past year, since their mailing list has already exceeded a hundred subscribers by word of mouth alone, and meetings typically see about 20-25 attendees.

CPW Net meets at 7:45 a.m. in the library on the third Thursday of every month. At each meeting, the network highlights one working woman from the community, who is given an hour to share her story. They're done by 9:00, in time for guests to head off to work. The group is geared toward women living and working in the Cohasset area, so meetings don't impact their commute.

For the hour and change they are together, the women arrange themselves in a circle, listening and conversing with the presenter. "It's very intimate," said Debbie Flanagan, who conceived and launched the group last summer. "There's a lot of eye contact, and people ask questions." She sees CPW Net as a unique environment for women to present their authentic selves.

So far, the group has featured a number of well-known local business owners, such as Irish Karter, who founded Dancing Deer Bakery; Christa Hagearty, President of Dependable Cleaners; and Tracey Noonan, founder of Wicked Good Cupcakes.

Last Thursday, CPW Net highlighted Mara Stefan, founder and President of EmergePR. Stefan (a "single, working mom by choice") told a little bit of her story and shared her insights about social media, PR and advertising. She gave tailored advice and answered questions for individuals around the circle. Women who had skills or experiences that could benefit others gladly shared them. Hatton called the network a "wisdom circle," and it's clear the other members feel the same way.

CPW Net is always on the lookout for speakers. The experience is low-key, intimate, and painless; it's all about shining a spotlight on one woman's accomplishments so that others can learn and grow. "It's not in a woman's DNA to crow about their accomplishments," said Hatton. Through meetings and social gatherings, the CPW Net "allows them to recognize their own accomplishments in a way they tend to keep to themselves."

"It's not all pretty, though," Hatton added. "We get the good, the bad and the ugly. And there's a lot of bad and ugly." The women who attend have led "varied, challenging, and heart-wrenching professional and personal lives." The group is all about acknowledging and celebrating those obstacles that women have overcome as people of leadership and responsibility in a male-dominated business environment.

"When women understand that there is a place where they can see their authenticity and their struggles laid open, it makes them calm down," said Hatton. "They realize they aren't the only ones having constant challenges, having to make compromises or give up. You don't find that other places, and that's who we are."

Flanagan points out that, although CPW Net is a network, it is not about networking. Nobody is selling anything. The focus is on community and empowerment, for women to feel connected to one another – especially as they are coming out of a career or sending children out of the nest and wondering, "what's next?"

She adds, though, that the network would love to see some younger women attend. For the May meeting, they are assembling a panel of three young entrepreneurs to discuss how they got started and what they learned in the process.

"Everybody is welcome," said Flanagan. There are no member fees, or even "members" – just reach out to them via their Facebook page at CPW Net.

The next meeting will fall on the third Thursday of May (May 17). Then the network will take a break for the summer, but that doesn't mean they're finished having fun! Follow their Facebook page for updates about summer social events, starting with a networking social on June 11.

Genesis Chamber Singers in concert

The Genesis Chamber Singers, the South Shore's very own professional chamber vocal ensemble, will present "The Promise of Spring" at First Parish of Cohasset on Friday, May 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Led by artistic director and First Parish Cohasset music director Joseph Young, the eight-voice mixed choir performs unaccompanied classical choral music in intimate spaces for intimate sized audiences. The group's mission involves making direct and meaningful connections with audience members of diverse backgrounds and varied musical knowledge and experience. Genesis brings engaging performances to audiences exclusively on the South Shore of Boston.

The eight singers all have degrees in music performance, and some have or are pursuing masters degrees as well. Joseph Young is completing his Doctor of Musical Arts in choral music at Boston University, studying with Ann Howard Jones, Scott Jarrett, and Scott Metcalfe. Repertoire on the program includes music of Josef Rheinberger, Samuel Barber, Charles Stanford, Edward Elgar, Sir Arthur Sullivan, and a world premiere of a work by Boston composer Adria Stolk.

AROUND TOWN

'Favorites' at Deer Hill Thursday

Marathon

Hey Cohasset, what's going on? I know many families are away or busy enjoying time off for April Vacation and I hope that you are enjoying it wherever you are. This past Monday had many of us either at the Boston Marathon cheering on the thousands of brave men and women running the race or, watching on TV and remembering that day filled with sadness, fear and anger. This year's Marathon was amazing and the memories will be held for years to come...Boston Strong!

Anniversary

Happy 13th Anniversary to Tom and Dee Wigmore this past Monday. This was a very special day for this amazing couple who have a love and strength that holds them together in friendship each and every moment. Your family, your friends and your Village surround you in thoughts and love every day.

Birthday

I also want to wish a very special birthday wish to Callie Piepenbrink, one I cannot believe I celebrated with her yesterday! 21 years could not have passed already but it happens way too fast. Happy 21st Birthday Coco, you are loved to the moon, the stars and back again...

Tri spot

The Tri For Jett Triathlon Team is auctioning off one spot in the sold out Cohasset Triathlon on June 28th. Bill Burnett, Founder of the Cohasset Triathlon, has generously donated one bib number to benefit the Jett

JENNIFER PIEPENBRINK

Foundation, a local organization devoted to finding a cure for Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy.

This is an exciting opportunity to participate in one of the most beautiful triathlons in the country right here in Cohasset. There is no fundraising commitment associated with a successful bid on this number. All proceeds from the auction will be donated to the Jett Foundation. To place your bid, please email Katie Cutler at katie@jettfoundation.org. Bidding is now open and starts at $100. Bidding will close on May 18th.

Baseball news

The Cohasset High School Baseball Team will be holding their annual Spring Tune-Up Camp for players ages 5 and up on Wednesday, May 13th from 2 to 4 p.m. (early release day). It will be held at the Barnes Baseball Complex and the price is $30 per player. All funds will help support the Cohasset High School Junior Varsity and Varsity Baseball Programs. Space is limited - to reserve a spot or if you have any questions, please email Deb Johnson (debjohn2000@yahoo.com) the name and age of the camper.

The Cohasset Diamond Club will also be accepting registrations at the Little League parade on May 2nd. In addition, we will be selling some great new baseball apparel, so bring your checkbook!

Student art

The "Favorites 2015" Deer Hill Student Art Show is taking place from April 30 to May 21. The Gala Opening is on Thursday, April 30th from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Each student has chosen his/her favorite artwork of the year to be included in this exhibit. There will be refreshments and music. All are invited to attend. Admission is free.

In addition to this year's annual Art Show, Deer Hill will be celebrating the grand unveiling of a very special permanent clay installation created by Deer Hill fifth grade students. This should be a very exciting night!

Archies honors

The following Cohasset students were named to the honor roll at Archbishop Williams High School for the third quarter of the 2014-2015 school year:

■ Lindsay Steljes, grade nine and Paige Roche, grade 10, were named to first honors.

■ Mary Tarpey, grade nine and Timothy Chase, grade 10, were named to the second honor roll.

Congratulations, all!

That is the news this week, Cohasset. Please make sure to get your news to me no later than Tuesdays by 5 pm each week. Also, do not send it to me in official press release form or from a flyer. You need to remove the key info that you want for me to have and use in order for me to write or include in your piece.

Thank you.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS' HALL

Learn about climate change from one of Cohasset's own

Environmental Program also to be featured

The Cohasset Center for Student Coastal Research (CSCR) is hosting a night of program information and cutting-edge climate change research on April 30, 7 p.m., at the Lighthouse Keepers' Hall. CSCR will unveil the details of its Environmental Stewardship Program and Ross Lieb Lappen will deliver a keynote address, "From Antarctica to the Arctic - A Story of Snow, Sea Ice, and the Frigid Cold."

Ross' research provides some clues as to why Arctic sea ice coverage has been decreasing at a rate of 9 percent per decade, with that number increasing to 15 percent over the last 10 years. Learn some new science from one of Cohasset's own.

CSCR will also provide details about its Environmental Stewardship Program (ESP). The ESP is designed to build environmental literacy in students and build our community's resilience to extreme weather and environmental change. Students in the program will participate in authentic projects that address NOAA's Principles of Ocean Literacy and carry students through intensive study of the entire watershed - from the upstream built environment, down rivers and brooks, into estuaries and harbors, out to the Gulf of Maine, and into the Atlantic waters.

To complete the program over a period of years spanning grades 7-12, students must engage in a minimum of 200 hours of authentic research in these 4 systems - ocean, estuaries, rivers, and the built environment.

The ESP culminates each year with capstone projects presented by exiting students. Students present the capstone projects to a broad-based community audience comprised of town officials drawn from the South Coastal Watershed, state and federal agency representatives, K-12 administrators, teachers and students, interested citizens, and personnel from research institutions, NGOs, and higher education. This is how we will build our community's resilience to climate change.

By serving as a focal point of a Community Summit, the student presentation serves as the catalyst for the local discussion that builds community resilience through the development of clearly articulated Local Action Statements written to address extreme weather and environmental change.

These broad-based community statements are annually revisited and become testimony to public understanding of earth's interconnected systems and to the community's ability to apply knowledge and problem-solving skills to real world issues.

Come to the Lighthouse Keepers on Thursday, April 30 at 7 p.m. for the lecture, and at 5:45 p.m. for pizza, summer research sign up, and more program information.

Dedication, expertise and excellence in service.

Ground Level Café levels up

Ground Level Café — Cohasset's first and only open coffeehouse for teens and families — is leaving Cohasset.

Ground Level launched on the first Friday of June, 2013, and has faithfully served up "creativity, community, and really great coffee" once a month since then. Now, they will be celebrating their final Cohasset coffeehouse on Friday, May 1, from 7-10pm, before moving to a new location in Marshfield.

For the past two years, teens, young adults, and families have enjoyed themed events such as holiday parties, poetry slams, and an annual mid-winter beach blast in the basement of Beechwood Congregational Church. Last summer, the café teamed up with the church to host a block party at nearby Beechwood Ballpark, attracting over a hundred guests from the surrounding neighborhood.

Ground Level thanks Beechwood for their support, which extended to letting the café revamp the basement space with a paint job, new furniture, artwork, and a full, Starbucks-style café window. It won't be the same hosting coffeehouses elsewhere.

And yet, in a way, it will. Ground Level is more than a space; it's a community. In June, that community will move to a new location at 185 Plain Street in Marshfield, where they will be partnering with Sanctuary Church. The hope is that, although the set might change, the cast will remain the same.

The Ground Level stage has featured dozens of gifted local performers: Madde Vachon, Andrew Geano, Evan Ackley, Erin Dale, Andrew O'Keeffe, Emily Hodges, Scituate band Closer Than We Appear — the list goes on. Many of Cohasset High School's finest have also shared a tune or two. Dan Toomey, Mary Lengyel, and this year's Mr. Skipper, Evan Canney, have all been regulars at the café.

Ground Level thanks every one of the performers, volunteers, and silent supporters who have made this community possible and hopes to see them all at the new location starting Friday, June 5. Follow @GroundLevelCaf on Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram for updates.

UPDATE

Field of Honor returns for ninth year

1 Once again The Sons of the American Legion, Squadron 118 of Cohasset, will post hundreds of United States Flags in a poignant display honoring local veterans. The Field of Honor recognizes the veterans who have so valiantly served our country to protect and preserve our freedom.

2 For the ninth straight year, the flags will fly from the lawn facing the Veterans Memorial which itself will be encircled by the flags of the 50 states. Residents of Cohasset and the surrounding area will experience this inspiring display of flags from May 16 to May 30 as the Stars and Stripes flutter proudly atop eight-foot poles set in ordered lines. This touching memorial is free to the public. The Healing Field dedication will be at 1 p.m. on Saturday, May 23.

3 How to take part: $30 individual flags may be sponsored in memory of family or friends honored. Checks should be made payable to the Sons of the American Legion with a note on the memo line of the check indicating Field of Honor. Sponsored flags can be retained as mementos of this year's Field of Honor which can be then be displayed from home or business. Sponsorship levels are also available.

4 How to help: Veterans Services Officer Vinnie Fountaine is looking for volunteers to help install this year's Healing field. Just go to the traffic island across from the Legion at noon on Saturday, May 16. Rain or shine.

5 To find more information or to sponsor a flag online, visit: healingfield.org/Cohasset15. For details on becoming an event sponsor or to obtain applications for field flags, please contact the American Legion Post at telephone 781-383-9657 or stop by at the Post at 98 Summer St., any time weekdays after 3 p.m., on Saturdays after 10 a.m. or on Sundays after 12 p.m.

All proceeds will go to veterans programs of the Sons of the American Legion of Cohasset.

'Children Living in the Shadow of Alzheimer's'

Program begins
Thursday, May 7

Children Living in the Shadow of Alzheimer's Disease is a four-part program for 8 to 12-year-old children who love someone with Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia.

The program is being offered by Sunrise of Cohasset beginning Thursday,

May 7 and pre-registration is required. For schedule and additional information, contact Bonnie Haley, LSW at 617-686-6173 or adjustingoursails@com-cast.net.

All the Best customer favorites included Dean's Beans coffee (organic, Fair Trade, and processed in-state), organic dark chocolate, local honey, and gluten-free items, which Bigley had in stock even before the gluten-free trend grew legs. Until recently, the store sold farm fresh eggs provided by a woman in Rockland, who retired last year at the age of 93.

At first, it was a challenge finding vendors and distributors to stock his shelves, but by the end, they were clamoring for space. The problem, said Bigley, was that people weren't clamoring to buy any of it. Whole Foods isn't that far away, and they stocked items that just didn't make sense for All the Best to carry. Fresh produce and meat didn't sell fast enough and became a waste.

Keeping abreast of the competition was one of the biggest challenges Bigley faced over the years, along with simply getting customers through the door when he was tucked away in the Pleasant Street shops. Even across from the Post Office, he often felt that his storefront was barely part of the village.

But those who shopped with Bigley shopped loyally. They came to him first, and only went to other stores if he was unable to get what they needed. Bigley was always willing to make special orders for customers who couldn't find what they were looking for on his shelves.

"I wanted to help and provide a service that was useful in people's lives," Bigley said; that's why he opened the store in the first place. Bigley was always health-conscious and found All the Best to be a perfect fit for him as well as Cohasset. When All the Best opened, Cohasset's existing health store, Nothing More Natural, had just closed. Bigley saw a need and filled it.

In light of that, Bigley felt that one of his greatest victories was simply being in the village for 12 years. He loved talking to people in the store and on the streets as he walked to work from his home on James Lane. Absent a companion, he could often be heard whistling cheerfully as he went. Heads turn and hands raise in greeting as he passes. It seems everyone in town is David Bigley's friend.

Bigley built strong friendships both across the counter and behind it. Nothing made him happier than giving teenagers their first chance to learn responsibility by working afternoons at his store. He rattles off his former employees' accomplishments as if they were his own children.

When the store closed, Bigley said employees and their families showed up with cars, vans and pickup trucks to help him move out, and they worked late into the night to finish the job. "It was tremendous," said Bigley. "They didn't need to do that."

He still has mixed feelings about his decision to close the store. Like the coffee beans and dark chocolate on his shelves, Bigley's feelings are bittersweet; he's sad to say goodbye to the store, but looking forward to whatever's next.

He doesn't know yet what that will be. Once upon a time, Bigley worked for Greenpeace, and after that, Habitat for Humanity. Maybe he will return to the nonprofit sector ("then again, I'm not sure I ever really made the transition to profit!" he joked).

For now, Bigley looks forward to re-involving himself with the Appalachian Service Project, getting a dog, and working in his garden, where he and his wife grow 30 to 40 pounds of garlic each year. "It's really good for you," he said. "Good for your cardiovascular system and cleaning out arteries." "And," he added, "it keeps vampires away. I haven't seen a vampire in twenty-five years."

For those who need their health food fix, Bigley recommends Good Health, a family-owned business that has stores in Quincy Center and Hanover. Bigley himself vouches that the 35-year-old stores have good selection, good quality, knowledgeable staff, and a full produce section.

He doesn't hate Whole Foods, but he does encourage customers to shop local, and that goes for more than just food. All the Best was not the only struggling business in Cohasset village. "There are things here," he said. "If people don't actively support what's in the village, it's not gonna be there."

"I'm grateful to have had this opportunity for more than a decade," Bigley said. Even though his store is gone, not to worry; his cheerful, trademark whistle will be turning heads around the village for years to come.

Yummy post-prom fundraiser

Prom 2015 is coming up quickly and plans are well underway to continue our long-standing tradition of hosting a fun and safe post-prom event for our seniors and their dates. To help fund this effort, the senior class boosters have organized a fundraising event with Chipotle in Hingham on Sunday, May 3, from 3 to 7 p.m.

When you visit Chipotle during those hours and give the cashier our flyer or show it on your phone, or just tell them your there to support the Cohasset senior class boosters, our post-prom event will receive 50 percent of the total proceeds. It's a great deal for everyone so please remember to visit the Hingham Chipotle on Sunday, May 3.

Sometimes the channel from Whitehead in toward Bassing Beach can be as shallow as two feet during low tide, which poses a danger to any vessels out on the water if the weather should turn — how can they return to safe harbors if the channel is not deep enough to accommodate their boat?

About 500 vessels use the harbor for both commercial and recreational purposes. Some rely on harbor access for their livelihood. But, said Harbormaster Lori Gibbons, most sailors in the town have been working around the tides for long enough that they're used to it.

"This has been a problem for five or six years," she said. While the situation isn't good, it also isn't new. Gibbons said that sailors should follow standard operating procedure this summer as in prior years. "Check the tide chart," she said, and "don't try and get in at low tide."

From October 1 through January 15, the Army Corps of Engineers will work to reestablish the channel at 90 feet wide by 9 feet deep. Sand will be removed from the harbor using a hydraulic dredge with a cutter head, then transported along the coastline to Sandy Beach, where it will be distributed across the beach by bulldozers.

Town Engineer Brian Joyce called the two-part process a "beach replenishment project" that benefits both the harbor and the beach. Adding sand to the beach will reduce its slope and layer over many of the rocks that can make barefoot beach-walking a real pain. The only casualties will be the shallow pools that often form in the middle part of the beach due to its current grade.

There has been some concern that adding sand to the beach will exacerbate the issue of wind-driven sand accumulating in the parking lot and in Little Harbor across the street. At the request of the Sandy Beach Association, Joyce investigated options for increased barriers between the beach and parking lot.

Joyce ultimately discovered that modifying or replacing the existing rock barrier would be prohibitively expensive ($200,000 to $600,000)

Gibbons said that sailors should follow standard operating procedure this summer as in prior years. "Check the tide chart," she said, and "don't try and get in at low tide."

as well as futile. He said that doubling the height of the barrier would not stop wind-driven sand, and would impede the view as well as creating "an attractive nuisance" for children.

Additionally, Joyce did not feel that adding material to the middle of the beach would have any great impact on the amount of sand blown across the parking lot and street. He concluded that dune fencing would be just as effective, much more cost-efficient, and more flexible than any other kind of barrier.

OUR VIEW

Green up and clean up

Earth Day is celebrating its 45th birthday this week and your invited to join the party.

The first Earth Day April 22, 1970 was marked by peaceful demonstrations by some 20 million Americans in support of environmental protection and reform. It sparked the political change needed to create the EPA and the passage of landmark legislation including the Clean Air, Clean Water, and the Endangered Species Act.

In the four decades since it was first celebrated in parks, on streets and college campuses across the U.S., Earth Day has become a global event feted with festivities and events in more than 192 countries.

In our neck of the woods, we are fortunate to have as part of the fabric of our community so many groups and organizations committed the very causes Earth Day espouses. Environmental protection and land conservation efforts are carried out year-round, helping to preserve the natural beauty that surrounds us on the South Shore. And there are many opportunities for residents to pitch in and help out with these efforts.

One of them takes place next week when the North and South Rivers Watershed Association is teaming up with several South Shore towns to clean up along the waterways. The 28th Annual River Clean Up Day is set for Saturday, May 2, nearly a month later than usual — pushed forward by last winter's snows, which piled up and covered piles of trash carelessly tossed along roadways, waterways, and trails.

Now that the snow has melted away, the litter that lay beneath for months has been exposed — everything from plastic bags tangled in trees and shattered liquor bottles, to discarded soda cans and coffee cups rolling along roadways. Not only is all the trash a blight to us, it can also be a hazard to local wildlife.

The NSRWA will focus its attention on the North and South Rivers — setting up clean up stations complete with trash bags and gloves at the Driftway Conservation area in Scituate, the Union Street Canoe Launch in Marshfield, Luddam's Ford Park and the Hanover Canoe Launch in Hanover, the Francis Keville Bridge and abandoned rail trail behind CVS in Marshfield and the Marshfield Town Landing (Ferry Street).

The clean up takes place from 10 a.m. to noon and is followed by a celebratory cookout for volunteers at the Driftway Conservation Area in Scituate. Volunteers are still needed and the NSRWA is in need of pickup trucks to haul trash from the cleanup sites — contact paula@nsrwa.org or call 781-659-8168 to lend a hand.

Right here in Cohasset, the Straits Pond Watershed Association needs assistance to clean around Straits Pond and Blackrock Beach. The annual Straits Pond Cleanup is scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 25.

Meeting places will be at 150 Atlantic Ave., Hull or at Wadleigh Park at Black Rock Beach. Black trash bags and gloves will be available at both sites but boots are suggested. A cookout will follow the clean-up at the tennis courts on Atlantic Avenue for all helpers. The rain date for the cleanup will be April 26, also from 10 a.m. to noon.

The cleanup area includes all sides of the pond in Cohasset and Hull and Black Rock Beach. A dump truck will be parked at Wadleigh Park for disposal of trash.

The Straits Pond Watershed Association would also like to invite you to join them in their efforts to keep the pond clean, healthy and beautiful for future generations. Dues are $10 for an individual or $16 for a family. Dues can be mailed to Merle Graham, 715b Jerusalem Road, Cohasset, MA 02025.

If you've been looking for a way to get involved or volunteer in your community — these clean up events are a beautiful way to do it.

COMMENTARY

Popularity is not a qualification

By Francis D. Collins

Further to April 17th Cohasset Mariner regarding the Cohasset Chief of Police search and Mr. Jack Keniley's comments.

I would like to point out to the entitled elitists, who presume to dictate how the Town of Cohasset should be run and by who, that we have a set of norms by which we select who is best qualified in all aspects to assume the position in question. I don't recall one of the qualifications was popularity.

We have been through some rough seas in our recent town history and I had hoped we were in for some smooth sailing, but no. The exclusive group who believe they should have the final say and put themselves in that position through bullying tactics and veiled threats are still at it.

I must remind us all we recently had an acting Town manager that the unelected power team wanted to keep, but after a due diligence search, Mr. Senior emerged as a better choice and was hired, and as far as I can see is doing a fine job even while fending off the attacks of the unelected power team.

And now, once again, we have a choice to make. Who should be our new Chief of Police? And, once again, we have hired an unbiased firm to conduct a search for the best qualified individual to assume that position per the Town guidelines. It may be Mr. Quigley or may not. But, it is up to Town Manager, Mr. Chris Senior to make that judgment with out any outside interference, and present his findings to the Board of Selectmen for their concurrence or rejection.

A writer in last week's Mariner questioned the criteria used to select the Chief. I submit it is none of his business as he is not part of the selection team. At this time the town has hired a firm whose job it is to do these searches and to apply the proper qualification standards to determine who makes the final selection group, and present them to the Town Manager for his consideration without any outside uninformed interference.

As a last comment, I was greatly displeased to read last week's biased coverage of the issue in the Mariner [page one]. Obviously The Mariner wants Acting Police Chief Quigley to have the job, but to write and publish such a non editorial, one sided piece is irresponsible.

I am writing this as a resident of this town since 1948 with 67 years of perspective and experience.

LETTER

Teaching children to love reading

The children at Carriage House Nursery school here in Cohasset chose to embark upon a very large challenge. In honor of Dr. Seuss's birthday back at the beginning of March, all 70 children at the nursery school started a five-week long challenge to read 1,000 books collectively. Each week the children would bring in their reading logs and add stickers to our binder in hopes of reaching our goal. The kids did indeed reach their goal and each class has earned an ice cream sundae party for all of their efforts.

Children love to be read to and in doing so we as adults are teaching children to love reading, something that will continue on with them as they grow. Putting the kids up to this challenge proved to be great fun, the kids were excited every time the logs came in and were able to put their stickers on our charts.

During this reading challenge, all three preschool/pre-k classes also did an author study on Eric Carle. The children all enjoyed this very much and each group did very creative artwork similar to how Eric Carle does his illustrations.

We finished up our unit by inviting Mrs. Moody the children's librarian at Paul Pratt Memorial Library here in Cohasset to read to our classes.

I as the director of the school good am so proud of them for achieving their goal. Congrats to all! — Lynn Fahie, School Director

LETTER

Let Town Manager do his job

An open letter to the citizens of Cohasset regarding last week's commentary in the Mariner by Jack Keniley. (Previous similar commentary by Ralph Dormitzer in the previous week's Mariner).

Perhaps Mr. Keniley might want to read again the charge given to the Town Manager in regards to the selection of the police chief. I was under the impression that this was a selection process between the Town Manager and Board of Selectmen. Not a popularity contest. I, and I am sure many other residents, only want the best-qualified candidate selected for this position.

Some questions. I'm curious to know how anyone knows who the three "finalists" are. To date, I have not seen any names, or towns they are currently employed by. I was under the impression that once those names were made public, the Town Manager and Selectmen would then discuss them, and the Town Manager would make his decision and bring it forward.

The evaluation of all candidates as mandated by the Board of Selectmen was made by a search firm employed by the town. That was their charge, to bring forth the best qualified candidates in their professional opinion. Apparently applications were reviewed and three candidates were selected. I for one have no idea who they are, other than rumors. None of which to the best of my knowledge came from within town hall.

How they were selected is quite frankly no one's business other than the firm, Town Manager and Board of Selectmen. The Town Manager is our CEO, and the Board of Selectmen our Board of Directors. You become a distraction and not in any way helpful to all involved.

Mr. Keniley would like the town to conduct a survey of town residents for their input. That idea is absurd at best. I don't believe a CEO of employees/residents before he/she made a choice.

I have a novel idea. Let's allow the Town Manager and Board of Selectmen to do their job without any of this constant badgering, interference, and intimidation from you and your group. It does get a bit wearisome at least to this writer and many other Cohasset citizens. — Peter J. Wood, 77 Summer St.

TOWN ELECTION Absentee ballots are available

Absentee ballots for the Annual Town Election on May 9 are available at the Town Clerk's office. Absentee voting may be done during normal office hours until noon on Friday, May 8, at which time the office will be closed to prepare for the election. People may vote absentee for the following reasons only:

1. Absence from the town during the hours the polls are open.
2. Physical disability.
3. Religious beliefs, which prevent voting at the polls on Election Day.

The applicant must request an absentee ballot. Applications are available in the Town Clerk's office or a written, signed request can be sent by mail, or hand delivered by the voter or any other person. The application should include the legal voting address of the voter, where the ballot is to be mailed, and the signature of the applicant.

A family member of a person qualified to vote by absentee ballot may apply on behalf of such voter. The applicant shall state his or her relationship to the absentee voter; sign the application, under the pains and penalties of perjury and mail or hand deliver the application to the clerk's office. Absentee ballots must be mailed to the voter. Returned ballots should be mailed or can be delivered by an immediate member of the family to the Town Clerk's office by May 9, to be counted.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

LAST WEEK'S QUESTION

For selectmen candidates: Does Cohasset spend too much on legal fees? How would you suggest reining in those costs?

SELECTMAN:

Martha Gjestebly

With laws and regulations affecting municipal government in a constant state of flux, Towns cannot afford to function without the service of a top rated municipal town counsel.

As a Selectman, we need to carefully consider potential legal consequences before any course of action.

The town counsel is needed for statutory responsibilities, as advisors to the town officials and departments and to defend any legal cases take to the courts. The School Committee does retain their own legal counsels for all matters pertaining to the operation of the schools.

The last several years our legal bills have been extraordinarily high. Some examples are:

F/Y 2012 — $349,877.24

F/Y 2013 — $347,031.25

F/Y 2014 — $227,688.64

(includes a carryover of $1,500 from F/Y 2013)

F/Y 2015 — Currently bills by the third quarter of this fiscal year are approximately $100,000.

Our new Town Manager, Mr. Senior, has been cautious in using the Town Counsel of labor issues by using his prior position. The Town Counsel represents the town in litigations that occur during the year. The Town Manager and the Town Counsel work together for the good of the town. Our Regulatory Committees (Planning Board, Board of Appeals and the Conservation Committee) often use the Town Counsel Specialists for their hearings. The Town Counsel attends our Board of Selectmen meetings once a month. It has helped in preliminary opinions that arise during our meetings.

Town Counsel checks the articles in the warrant as to their legality and attends the town meeting to be available to the town for their needs.

The Board of Selectmen has been judicious in the usage of an excellent Town Counsel, this year.

SELECTMAN:

Peter Pescatore

The current use of a specialized municipal legal firm that is able to provide various specialists to deal with governance, contracts, personnel, liability and collective bargaining issues seems to be the correct model to respond to all of the various needs of our town government.

The existing policy of controlled access to legal services through the office of the Town Manager works well and has resulted in a reduction in legal costs over prior years. I do not see any reason to change our retained legal service system that is well managed and cost effective. The retained services package covers most of our routine legal needs with additional service requests managed by the Town Manager.

Cohasset does not spend too much on legal services today and I would recommend that we rely on the Town Manager to continue to manage this responsibility as he has.

As Chair of the Advisory Committee and Budget Planning Group I have been responsible for monitoring the Town's spending trends, including our legal costs.

In past years when the relationship between the Board of Selectmen and Town Manager was contentious, our fiscal year legal cost ran well over budget at $347,000 for FY13 as turf battles were fought. Once we recruited and appointed our professional town manager, the legal appropriation for FY14 of $223,000 was underspent by $20,000. The FY15 legal budget of $175,000 is on track to be underspent as of 3/31/15 and the FY16 proposed appropriation is $175,000 again. I like this trend and you should too.

SELECTMAN:

Paul Schubert

The best way to save money on legal costs is to never have to go to court. That simple idea is true for homeowners, businesses and municipalities. The town should do its best to settle and mediate prior to forcing a court suit. I believe it does enter the courtroom only when necessary. Some legal costs are for the day-to-day filings and mediation required for the town. The town will always have legal costs related to property zoning and easement disputes and interpretation.

Any decision by any town board may be appealed despite fine legal grounds and footing. This can be costly to the town while the person or business seeking an appeal may not worry about the cost if an appeal is necessary. Having the counsel that is experienced in municipal law will help with insight into problems while being cost effective.

There will be fluctuation of cost year to year much as the school legal costs track the contract cycle of the various employees, usually a three year cycle high, in contract negotiation years lower in non-contract years. Nevertheless there will yearly variations, for projects the town starts or new federal or state regulation. These unexpected items may require innate litigation or legal work that would not normally be estimated in the budget process. The federal flood maps are a clear example of an unexpected need to dispute when the town received the federal government proposal.

As a town, having an experienced legal counsel that is able to settle prior to the courtroom is essential. Understanding federal, state, and local regulations with efficiency of implementation is a final cost saver.

NEXT WEEK'S QUESTION

For Selectmen candidates: Turn the clock ahead one year: What do you see as your biggest accomplishment or contribution? In other words, how did you make a difference? Responses should be brief — no more than 275 words — and must be received by 5 p.m., Tuesday. Candidates are asked to be specific and make every word count. Submissions will be cut if they exceed the word limit. (We use the word-count feature on the computer to determine the number of words.)

Candidates should reply by e-mail at mford@wickedlocal.com.

The Mariner will also publish a weekly Candidates' Corner, which will be limited to a few paragraphs (about 175 words), from any candidate who chooses to submit dates of coffees, fund-raisers, short issue statements and the like.

All candidates opposed or unopposed (who have not already done so) are invited to submit photographs and formal statements announcing their candidacies.

The Mariner will not accept letters to the editor from candidates or letters endorsing or attacking particular candidates. The Mariner will publish letters about campaign issues from citizens not seeking election.

If you have questions, or would like to suggest a Question of the Week, call Mary Ford at 781-741-2933 or contact her by e-mail at mford@wickedlocal.com.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Maher running for School Committee

By Ellen Maher

Hi, my name is Ellen Maher and I am running for a seat on the Cohasset School Committee. A resident since 1966, my family and I are blessed to be able to call Cohasset home. We have deep roots in the Cohasset Public Schools; my husband graduated in '70, my siblings in '73, '76 and '84, myself in '80, and now my sons in 2010 and 2014. I received my undergraduate degree from Babson College in 1984.

The Cohasset Public School District is a top-performing district in this state. Strong in the three A's; academics, athletics and the arts, this district performs at a high level year in and year out. Dedicated staff and faculty, motivated students and engaged parents ensure that district report cards are stellar.

As a community member, I have spent the last several years volunteering; Board Member/Director of Game Day Seituete Cohasset Youth Football, Cohasset Gridiron Club (Board Member/Treasurer), President Cohasset Basketball Boosters, Member Cohasset Sports Partnership, founding/former member Cohasset Athletic Hall of Fame Committee, Volunteer photographer Cohasset Rotary Club/Cohasset Road Race, Cohasset High School Post Prom Committee (2010 and 2014), past member Cohasset Middle High School Council. It is now time for me to take the next natural step and run for School Committee.

The Cohasset Public School District is only as good as those that lead it. It is vital that the Committee provide to the leadership of the district all of the tools necessary to keep the district performing at its highest possible levels. Our budgets must support the educational objectives of the district. We must ensure that all stakeholders are engaged and supported in this goal and feel motivated and valued.

Preparedness for the next level is critically important to our students whether they are moving from the Osgood to the Deer Hill, the Middle School to the High School or the High School to college. The School Committee needs to make sure, in working with the Superintendent, that all children are equipped with the necessary skills to be successful at each level in their education.

We must ensure that the technology in the district supports the educational objectives of our students and faculty. A new district website, filled with current information for parents and community members is vitally important as well.

My professional experience 22 years in Retail Merchandising, 7 1/2 years in Logistics and Freight Forwarding, has allowed me to hone my analytical and problem solving skills. I am a results oriented professional, accustomed to the dynamics of working with a group to find resolution in a respectful way. I look forward to the challenges of serving the town of Cohasset on the Cohasset School Committee, and more than your support, I would appreciate your comments and concerns about our district.

—Ellen Maher lives at 63 Old Pasture Road.

SCHOOL NEWS

New special education professional needed

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

The School Committee fielded a curve ball at last Wednesday night's meeting: the high school wants to hire a new special education professional.

The proposition met with some resistance from the School Committee, but no one opposed the idea; they simply questioned why this major adjustment was coming so late in the game, two months after the budget had been finalized.

"We are not adding to the budget," emphasized Mary Buchanan, Director of Student Services, who presented the change of plans alongside High School Principal Carolyn Connolly. There will be some shifting within the budget – but the school budgets are designed to be fluid for this exact reason.

"To say it has zero impact on the budget is not true," board member Helene Lieb pointed out. If the high school hires a new employee, the Town will be obligated to offer that person health benefits.

However, the plan is cost neutral in terms of salary and will not change the bottom line of the school budget.

Initially, the plan was to move a specialist from another school up to the high school. Superintendent Barbara Cataldo said this will no longer be possible.

"With special education, things are very fluid," she said. "Numbers change continuously. We can't always anticipate in October what our needs will be the following year." More students need services now than needed them at the beginning of the year.

The needs of students on Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) are evaluated at the end of the school year based on goals set the previous spring. Those assessments can't happen in February or March, when the budgets are created; that's only two-thirds of the way through the school year. A lot can change between March and June.

A number of students on IEPs will be moving up to the high school next year, and there are not enough services in place to address their needs. It would not be appropriate to shoehorn them into full inclusion programs; they need services outside of the general education classroom.

The parents of these students have two options: to keep their children in the Cohasset school district, or to send them elsewhere. Although the district provides financial support for students who have to leave the district, it's a logistical hardship for families and prohibits students from participating in community activities even after school, because they get home later than their peers in the local district.

"We should make every effort to make it possible for them to stay," Cataldo told the School Committee. "This group would be better served by staying with their friends now, rather than asking them to leave at such a difficult age."

Cataldo explained that, financially, hiring a new teacher would be a trade, not a new expense. Funding that would have been paid out to support students leaving the district will instead go toward the salary of the new teacher. In the end, this plan is actually more cost-effective.

Francesca Arnold of 20 Flintlocke Ridge commented, "Special education is an ever-evolving beast. Even though it's past the eleventh hour, I applaud the committee for considering this."

The committee voted unanimously to create the position and will begin the interview process soon, with an eye to hiring the new teacher before the end of the school year.

SCHOOLS

Superintendent's report card delivered

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

At last week's School Committee meeting, the Board gave their annual review of Superintendent Barbara Cataldo. Cataldo's performance was seen as, for the most part, proficient across the board, with some recommendations for improvement from board members.

The review was based on four standards and two goals set by the Massachusetts Department of Education and rated on a four-level scale.

In the category of instructional leadership, all Board members agreed that Cataldo had earned a proficient rating. This category is based on factors such as curriculum elements, instructional standards, addressing a diversity of needs, and student assessment.

Feedback in the management and operations category was more varied. One Board member felt that Cataldo's endorsement of a drastic budgetary adjustment that night reflected an overall shortcoming.

Most, however, felt that the superintendent's performance had been proficient, even exemplary, with regard to human resources factors, scheduling, informational systems, policies, and aligning educational goals with the budget.

Cataldo earned a proficient rating for family and community engagement, with Board members praising the superintendent's popular coffee sessions. Cataldo tipped her hat to Board member Jeanne Astino, who had come up with the idea.

Board members felt that Cataldo had been proficient at creating a strong professional culture, factoring in standards and core values, shared vision, and social diversity. Many, however, felt that Cataldo could improve her conflict management skills.

It was generally agreed that Cataldo had made significant and impressive progress toward professional practice goals and student learning goals that had only been set as recently as half a year ago.

Board member Dr. Helene Lieb concluded, "the superintendent has led the district into becoming one of the best districts in Massachusetts. We are growing as a district in a very professional way." To Cataldo, she added, "I personally thank you for all your efforts."

HOUSING NEEDED

Sister City Project seeks host families

For the third year in a row, the Scituate Sister Project will be offering an intensive English immersion program to students from Sucy-en-Brie, their twin city in France. Called the "Sejour Linguistique," this program gives 16 to 18 year old students the opportunity to improve their English skills by living with a local family, attending classes for three hours each day, and essentially by being immersed in the language 24/7.

The program will run from July 11 to 25, and they are actively seeking host families who would be interested in housing and feeding a student. Ideally, the host family would consist of at least one high school age student who might also be interested in participating in a reciprocal program in the future, but anyone who would like to be a part of welcoming these students to Scituate or Cohasset is welcome. No knowledge of the French language is required, as you will be expected to speak English to your guest.

During their visit, they will also be introduced to the area, with numerous afternoon excursions, such as a trip into Boston and possibly one to Plimoth Plantation. Additionally, there will be group get togethers, and a Bastille Day celebration has tentatively been scheduled.

This is a chance to interact one on one with a young person from France, and will doubtless open doors to future exchange opportunities. If you'd like to be a part of this, contact Patricia Jacquart at p.jacquart@comcast.net or Beth Marat at bmarat@cohasset12k.org.

Mark your calendar: summer is coming!

Come snow or high water (but really, don't), the last day of school is set for Friday, June 26. No further act of nature can push back the start of summer.

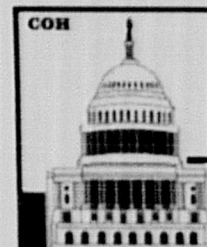

The date accommodates seven snow days taken during the record-setting winter. Board member Dr. Helene Lieb moved to set the date in stone, with a second from member Dr. Paul Schubert. All members voted in favor.

Based on results of a public survey, the Board also voted on opening and closing dates for the 2016-17 school year.

Monday, September 7 will be the first day of school in fall 2016, and barring another winter like this one, students can look forward to a relatively early release on Thursday, June 16, 2017.

In addition, the Board voted not to have school on Good Friday that year, which will fall on March 25.

THE HOUSE AND SENATE: Beacon Hill Roll Call records the votes of local representatives on four roll calls and local senators on one from the week of April 13-17.

RULES FOR HOUSE BUDGET DEBATE (H 3899)

House 120-35, voted strictly along party lines and approved a set of Democratic leadership-sponsored rules to be followed when the House considers the fiscal 2016 state budget beginning on April 27. Provisions include requiring all amendments to be filed online, any proposed tax hikes or reductions to be considered early in the process and amendments to be filed within two days.

Supporters said that these rules are fair and responsible and will help make the budget debate go smoothly. Opponents said the rules include several provisions that are anti-democratic and weaken the input of individual members.

(A "Yes" vote is for the rules. A "No" vote is against the rules.)

MAKE IT HARDER TO SHIP BUDGET AMENDMENTS OFF TO STUDY COMMITTEES (H 3899)

House 35-120, voted strictly along party lines and rejected a Republican-sponsored rule requiring a two-thirds vote to ship proposed amendments off to a study committee unless the sponsor of the original amendment agrees with conducting a study.

The rule is designed to stop what Republicans describe as successful attempts by Speaker Robert DeLeo and his Democratic leadership team to prevent Democratic members from having to vote directly against many GOP proposals including ones to reduce taxes.

Here's an example of how the GOP says it works: The Republicans offer a proposal to reduce the income tax from 5.3 percent back to 5 percent. If the Democratic leadership does nothing, there would be a roll call vote directly on the tax reduction. Most Democrats would vote against the reduction and then would be open to charges of being against tax relief.

Instead, a Democratic member offers a "delaying" amendment that would prohibit the tax reduction from taking effect until the Department of Revenue studies its economic impact.

Under House rules, the amendment to study and delay the tax cut is voted upon first. If it passes, which it always does, no other amendments can be introduced and the original proposal that would simply cut the tax is dead without ever having a direct vote on it. Republicans say the studies are a sham because they are never done.

They say this is all pre-planned by the Democratic leadership, that the Speaker at the podium calls upon a representative who is loyal to him and the member proposes the delay and study. Even if a Republican member is waving his or her hand and shouting to be recognized, he or she will not be called upon because he or she would not propose the delay and study.

Some Democrats say the study is often a legitimate option to examine the impact of the tax reduction. Other Democrats acknowledge that the study is proposed to prevent a direct vote on the tax reduction.

Supporters of the Republican-proposed rule said this Democratic ploy is used to confuse the voters. They argued that the new rule would at least give supporters of tax reduction amendments a better opportunity to successfully force a vote directly on the tax cuts.

Opponents of the rule said the current system has worked fine. They argued raising the bar to a two-thirds majority is a slippery slope that will lead to proposals to require a two-thirds vote for all kinds of legislation.

(A "Yes" vote is for the rule requiring a two-thirds vote. A "No" vote is against the rule.)

ALLOW MORE TIME TO FILE BUDGET AMENDMENTS (H 3899)

House 35-120, voted strictly along party lines and rejected a Republican-sponsored amendment that would give members seven days instead of three days to file amendments to the $38 billion state budget.

Supporters of the new rule said the budget is a massive document that members must have time to read and understand before proposing amendments.

Opponents said the three-day window has worked well and should not be changed. They noted that the Ways and Means Committee needs the early deadline so it can properly prepare the amendments for debate.

(A "Yes" vote is for allowing more time to file amendments. A "No" vote is against allowing it.)

BAN CONSOLIDATED AMENDMENTS (H 3899)

House 35-120, rejected a GOP-sponsored amendment banning consolidated amendments from being proposed and considered during budget debate. Consolidated amendments are created when individual representatives file dozens of amendments on the same general subject like local aid, social services and public safety. They are then invited to "subject meetings" at which they pitch their amendments to Democratic leaders, who draft "consolidated amendments" that include some of the individual representatives' amendments while excluding others. The House can only vote for or against a consolidated amendment once it reaches the floor. A member is permitted to remove his or her amendment from the consolidated package and have it debated and voted upon by itself.

Supporters of the ban said it is undemocratic and unfair to force legislators to vote dozens of amendments in one package up or down.

Opponents said the process is fair and has worked well. They noted that considering only one amendment at a time would be time-consuming and delay the budget.

(A "Yes" vote is for banning consolidated amendment. A "No" vote is against the ban.)

SENATE SEEKS ITS OWN COMMITTEES (S 47)

Senate 39-0, approved a measure that would require the Rules Committee to look into ways the Senate could establish its own committees independent of the House. Currently, there are 27 joint committees. The order was filed in response to an ongoing dispute between the House and Senate. In January, the Senate 37-0, approved a joint rule that would allow bills filed by senators that are heard by joint committees to be reported on and sent to the Senate for a vote if the Senate members of the committee vote to do so. The same rule would apply to bills filed by House members. Current rules require a vote of both House and Senate members of the joint committee. The House leadership is opposed to this new rule.

Senate leaders say this change would help make the operation of committees more efficient and help stop bills from being tied up in committee. They noted that the House has more members on each joint committee and as a result has more say over the fate of bills. Senate President Stan Rosenberg said, "The experience that chairs are reporting these days is very uneven. Some senators say their [House] co-chair couldn't be more cooperative and more helpful and they have no problem reaching agreement and most of the bills move out when they need to move out — quickly, well, to the right branch. Other members who are chairing committees report the opposite experience."

Opponents said this is a solution in search of a problem. In a Boston Globe editorial, House Speaker Robert DeLeo said, "The current system results in better representation on Beacon Hill for the people of Massachusetts. Of our two legislative branches, the House is, by design, the most representative of the people and structured to be the most responsive." DeLeo continued, "This is why, as is true in many states and in Congress, senators cannot propose tax bills, and why the state constitution gives more power to House members when voting on constitutional amendments and ballot initiatives."

(A "Yes" vote is for the measure.)

Getting on board with your local committees

The Cohasset Board of Selectmen recognizes the important roles the Town's volunteer committees and boards perform throughout the year. In its Goals and Objectives for the FY15 fiscal year, the Selectmen committed to clarifying roles and responsibilities and actively reaching out to citizens to serve on committees in Town.

In early Fall, the Board scheduled a well-attended workshop led by Town Counsel Paul DeRensis, which addressed the State's Open Meeting Law and other operational issues, including agenda preparation and minutes, remote participation, and quorums.

Over the course of the year, the Board approved a committee application form and the Town Clerk drafted a Committee Handbook which outlines the various committees and processes. The Handbook was available at the recent Health & Recreation Fair. Members of the Board of Selectmen were on hand to discuss committee participation and encourage residents to participate in all aspects of town government, from voting, to reviewing of the town meeting warrants, to participating in Town Meeting, and serving on a volunteer committee.

One of the key ingredients to a well-performing committee is a clear "charge" or mission. The mission not only enables the committee to work toward a specific goal, but is important for retention of committee members and attracting new and diverse voices to the conversation.

Most of the Town Committees and Boards will have appointments/reappointments at the end of June as terms expire; those interested in serving should apply (and/or reapply) using the Committee Volunteer application form, which is available on the Town website at www.cohassetma.org. It is recommended that applicants reach out to committee chairmen to understand both the charge of the committee and the time commitment.

Currently, there are a few committees actively seeking members: Stormwater Advisory Committee and Open Space & Recreation committee. The Board of Selectmen will discuss the current status and charge of these committees at their May 5th meeting.

For additional information, contact the Town Manager/Board of Selectmen office at 781-383-4100 x101/x108.

Straits Pond cleanup scheduled

Due to the damage from winter storms the Straits Pond Watershed Association needs assistance to clean around Straits Pond and Blackrock Beach. The annual Straits Pond Cleanup is scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday April 25.

Meeting places will be at 150 Atlantic Ave., Hull or at Wadleigh Park at Black Rock Beach. Black trash bags and gloves will be available at both sites but boots are suggested. A cookout will follow the clean-up at the tennis courts on Atlantic Avenue for all helpers. The rain date for the cleanup will be April 26, also from 10 a.m. to noon.

The cleanup area includes all sides of the pond in Cohasset and Hull and Black Rock Beach. A dump truck will be parked at Wadleigh Park for disposal of trash.

The Straits Pond Watershed Association would like to invite you to join them in their efforts to keep the pond clean, healthy and beautiful for future generations. Dues are $10 for an individual or $16 for a family. Dues can be mailed to Merle Graham, 715b Jerusalem Road, Cohasset, MA 02025 of landfills, regulation of well-water, and chickens. Yes, chickens. "We had a rooster issue this year," said Chapman. This, along with so many regulations (noise, dumpsters, the list goes on), falls under the "public health" umbrella.

The Board of Health is also responsible for ensuring that the town is prepared in case of emergency. Issues of homeland security, infection management, and emergency preparedness fall on their shoulders. The staff must be continually educated, and the chairman must see to it that they are.

"Requirements are always shifting," said Chapman, "but not always the resources to do it." In other words, it's a big job with a lot of moving parts. But Chapman is able to look back in satisfaction at a job well done. She feels her greatest achievement was bringing a level of "continuity and leadership" to the board across her years of service.

Lawrence can think of a few other achievements worth mentioning. The Board of Health recently passed new regulations prohibiting the sale of tobacco products in Cohasset stores that also have a pharmacy, such as CVS and Stop and Shop, as part of the national effort to reduce tobacco use, especially for teenagers.

Lawrence said that the Board has also taken strides to address skin health issues. Due to Cohasset's identity as a beach town, it is naturally a higher-risk community for skin cancer. Consequences of sun exposure in teenage years can emerge as problems later in life.

Public health nurse Mary Goodwin explained that Cohasset, in conjunction with three neighboring towns and the Children's Melanoma Prevention Foundation, has worked to put state grant funding toward skin protection education for the public. This education takes place at events like the health fair and the farmers market.

Finally, Lawrence mentioned the construction of new, government-mandated sewers around Little Harbor, which Chapman cited as one of the biggest challenges (and biggest victories) she's seen in her tenure.

Chapman feels her greatest achievement was bringing a level of "continuity and leadership" to the board across her years of service.

In addition to filling Chapman's seat on the Board (and her shoes as chairman), the Board of Health is working with the town to hire a new health agent. The health agent is not a member of the board, but acts as a liaison between the Board and the Town to carry out the Board's wishes.

Currently, Jennifer Sullivan of Braintree is acting as Cohasset's health agent in place of Felix Zemel, who resigned in November after two years in the position. Town Manager Chris Senior is considering finalists, and a decision is expected within the next few weeks.

CAMP, SCHOOL and ACTIVITIES DIRECTORY

HOW SUMMER CAMPS KEEP KIDS HEALTHY

By Bette Bussell, Executive Director, American Camp Association, New England

A new study by Indiana University and Ohio State researchers found that children gain more weight over the summer than during the school year. However, a child's summer camp experience can provide the structure and activity needed to keep kids healthy year-round. According to research conducted by the American Camp Association, 75% of children who learn new activities at camp tend to continue engaging in these activities after they return home.

The whole camp environment promotes a healthy lifestyle and helps prevent childhood obesity, and it's not just limited to the activities that campers are participating in. Camp includes a lot of physical activity, healthy eating and good nutrition, and a set sleep schedule, all of which many children with no camp experience are missing out on.

Exercise: Summer camp life involves quite a bit of moving around, and no matter what, campers are always playing. Physical activities such as sports, dance, swimming, navigating the ropes course, or hiking up a mountain, all require campers to move and burn calories in new ways. Even the walk from one activity to another might involve more steps than children typically take in a day.

Healthy Eating: At camp, food tends to be different than school cafeteria food and home food and snacks. Camp is all about trying out new experiences, and many campers do that even in the dining hall, campers have an opportunity to try new foods—whether it's a new salad dressing from the salad bar at lunch or frozen yogurt instead of ice cream. Food service staff members and counselors are always looking for ways to encourage healthy eating by introducing new meals. Also, often campers are exposed to the food that happens to be around camp like produce from the camp's garden and healthy snacks often at hand, including cereal, energy bars, or pieces of fresh fruit, and of course, plenty of water rather than soda and other sugary drinks.

Sufficient Shut-eye: You will be amazed at how tired your camper is when they come home from day camp or even a session at overnight camp. Reports in fact show that bedtime happens on time or early most days for day campers.

Overnight campers experience optimal conditions for sleep—extra activity during the day, fresh air and sunshine, and a schedule with built in time for sleep and rest—often after lunch and again at the end of the day.

The Benefits of the Great Outdoors: Spending more time in nature is a proven stress reducer. The warmth of the sun, a cool, refreshing rain, the calming sounds, the wind in the trees being outside and connecting with nature is nurturing and calming for people of all ages. Camps offer some unique opportunities to explore, appreciate, learn and benefit from nature, and when stress is reduced, often the desire to overeat and remain inactive is also reduced.

The American Camp Association, New England believes that all children need a broad range of opportunities to be physically active. Physical activity produces fundamental physical, psychological, and social benefits. For more than 150 years, camp programs have sought ways to create healthy communities for children by providing environments that offer frequent and varied opportunities for physical activity. The healthy lifestyle learning curve can be steep, but camps encourage children and provide the lessons, role models, coaching, inspiration, and encouragement that children need so they can form healthy habits for life.

Provided by the American Camp Association, New England, a 501 (c) 3 organization that serves families and camp professionals as the region's leading source for "all things summer camp." GIRLS GOLF

So far so good

Girls fare well in early going

By William Wassersug
wwassersug@wickedlocal.com

The Cohasset girls golf team is still in a learning phase, as most second-year programs are, but the learning has come quickly for this group, as they've won two of their first three matches to start the season.

In the season opener, Cohasset beat Mt. Alvernia 4-2, and followed with a split in a tri-meet with Braintree and Hingham.

Against Hingham, Cohasset lost 4.5-1.5, while they beat Braintree 5-1.

The start has pleased co-coach Torin Sweeney, who teams with PGA Pro Pam Kerrigan-Johnson, who played on the LPGA Tour for six years.

"We were just under .500 last year," Sweeney said. "We hope to be better than that this year and make the tournament. We're having fun."

Say Chowda

Laxmen score 10 straight to roll past Archies

By Jay N. Miller

An eagerly awaited showdown between two of the South Shore's boys lacrosse titans, in Tuesday's opening round of the 2015 Chowda Cup Tournament, didn't quite live up to its billing as a rematch of last year's Division 3 South Sectional final.

In a game of surges, Cohasset High got the first and last surge, and the Skippers made their later surge last for the entire second half, pumping home 10 unanswered goals to defeat Archbishop Williams, 16-3.

Cohasset improved to 8-1, with its only loss coming at the hands of a California team (nationally ranked Foothills, Santa Ana), and featured no less than nine different goal scorers. The Bishops suffered their first loss of the season, falling to 7-1, and got all three of their goals from one player, junior Luke Bernasconi of Hanover.

"We got a little piece of humble pie today," said Bishops coach Steve Rotondi. "Our game plan was paying attention to all the little details, and focusing on that, and obviously it didn't happen."

Skipper freshman Will Thomas scored just 1:53 into the game, but Bernasconi took the ensuing faceoff and raced in on net all alone to get the equalizer 8 seconds later. But that would be the last Bishops highlight for the rest of that period, as Skipper senior Curtis Golden netted two goals, and three more Cohasset shooters hit the net, to give the defending state champs a 6-1 advantage after one period.

The second quarter belonged to Williams. Bernasconi scored two more times, and his mates kept the much larger Skippers at bay and off the scoreboard. Trailing just 6-3 at the break, the Bishops had lifted themselves back into the game, but they'd also awakened Cohasset.

"I thought we put ourselves in a really bad hole in that first period," said Rotondi. "But then we came out and responded very well in the second period, and were able to

Rugged schedule a great test

Lacrosse benefitting from playing top competition

By William Wassersug
wwassersug@wickedlocal.com

The Cohasset boys lacrosse team won the first game of the annual Chowda Cup Tournament, beating last year's Division 3 Sectional opponent Archbishop Williams 16-3.

The win improved the Skippers to 8-1 this season and sent a message to opponents that this squad is special.

In the team's previous game, Thursday, Cohasset downed neighboring Scituate 13-8 in a game that wasn't as close as the score indicated.

"We were up 13-4 and changed goalies," Cohasset coach James Beaudoin said. "They scored a few in the last two minutes."

Curtis Golden had three goals and an assist in the win, but overall the scoring was spread out.

For the Skippers, one strength this season is depth.

"It's huge to have depth," Beaudoin said. "We have to midfield lines we can trust. We also have two defensive lines that are very well balanced, potentially even more than last year."

The one loss was against Foothills, Santa Ana from California, just a few minutes down the road from Disneyland.

"They're a school of 2,200," Beaudoin said of the California power. "They're outside all year. They were ramped up and ready to go. They took it to us better than anyone."

Beaudoin didn't mind the loss.

"We learned from that big-time," he said. "We watched a lot of film. We know there's work to do. We still have BC High and Medfield on the schedule. A game like that tests the kids. It's a good change to play teams with that type of talent."

The Skipper success comes from all over a roster that boasts a number of players who will suit up at the next level.

"Jeff Powers is outstanding on the attack," Beaudoin said. "He's a terrific captain. He's going to Bowdoin next year."

SOFTBALL

Banding together

Cohasset and Hull softball together again

By William Wassersug
wwassersug@wickedlocal.com

It doesn't seem like it was too long ago that the Cohasset softball team won a Div. 3 South Sectional championship, 2009 to be exact, but only a few years later, numbers dwindled and the team was eliminated.

Fortunately for Cohasset, Athletic Director Ron Ford never gave up on the sport, and last year, the school combined with neighboring Hull to put a team on the field.

Hull already had a varsity team, but numbers were down there as well, so like in track and field, the schools were able to build a co-op team playing in Hull.

The team worked well enough to keep it going, and that has made at least 12 girls, their parents and fans happy.

The girls opened last week with a well-fought 15-4 loss to Abington, one of the better teams in the area, in a game that was a positive sign for coach Ann Marie Dunn.

"They looked fantastic," Dunn said. "They played very well for an opening game. We've only been on the field a half dozen times, and had to do a lot in the gym. Abington will be one of the top three teams in the division. We led 3-0 and it was still 6-4 into the sixth inning. I don't think they expected us to be much competition, but we gave them a game."

The team is truly a combined effort, with six players from Cohasset and six from Hull on the roster.

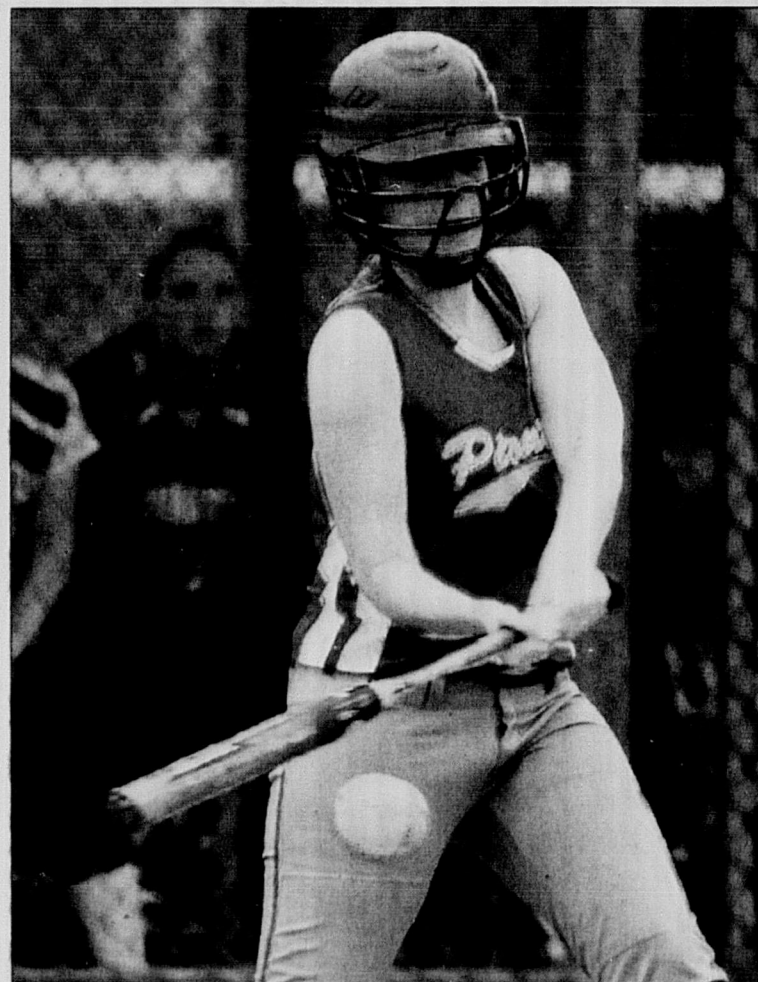

As with most softball teams, much of the fortunes will come from the performance of senior pitcher Kailey Pinkus (Cohasset).

"She's going to be our sole pitcher," Dunn said. "We have one backup in the making, but we're relying on Kailey. She's phenomenal. She pitched a great game against Abington."

Hull's Kathleen Dunn, the coach's daughter is a senior shortstop.

"She's a four-year starter and our No. 4 batter," Dunn said. "This is her last year. She's an All-Star and will play at Wentworth next season."

tighten up the defense."

Cohasset coach James Beaudoin reminded his boys that their glittery past accomplishments and trophies meant nothing in 2015, and the Bishops were all too eager to spring the big upset.

"They read their own press clippings," said Beaudoin. "Just because they come out here and think they should win, doesn't mean they will, and we had to make them realize that teams you play like this are going to be all charged up to beat you. I wanted them to basically start over. We had also taken some bad penalties late in the half, and in the second half they fixed themselves on that score."

Beaudoin also pointed to another factor, as those penalties threatened to feed the incipient Bishops comeback.

"Assistant coach Donovan arrived for the second half," said Beaudoin. "He always does a good job of keeping the kids composed. He kept them in check and concentrating on defense, and also helped calm me down. It's always a balance: you want the kids fired up, but also poised and composed."

Cohasset had too much of everything in the third period, scoring five straight goals to turn the close contest into an 11-3 rout. Those five goals came from five different Skippers, and when the Bishops did get the ball long enough to threaten, the Cohasset defense was solid. Junior goalkeeper Conor Naughton made several standout saves.

"This was definitely Conor's best game of the season," said Beaudoin. "Of course they helped make him look good with some of those shots from the outside, but Conor was also stuffing them from in close. He and our defense looked very impressive today."

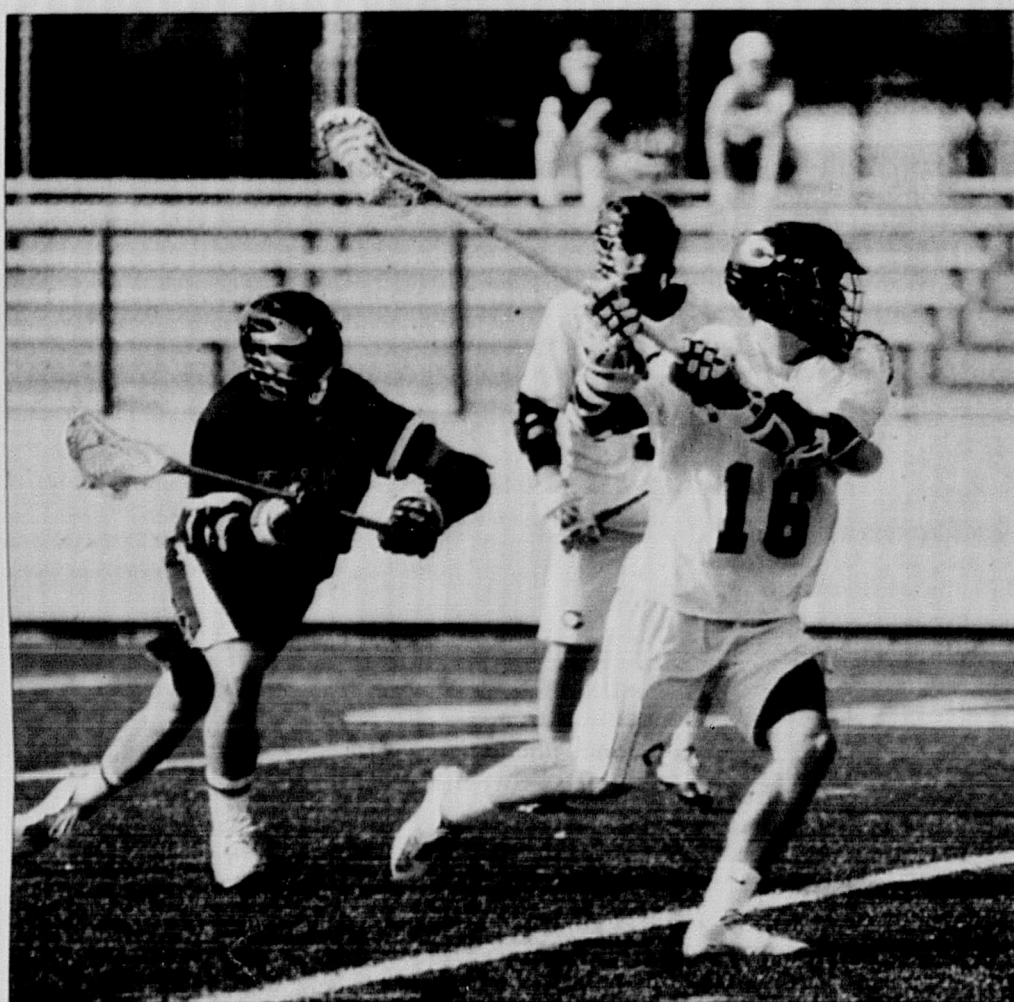

With the physical play leading to more penalties, the larger Skippers kept their cool and rammed home five more goals in the final frame. Senior attack Jeff Powers led Cohasset with three goals, while Golden, sophomore Jimmy Farren, junior Dan Axelson, and senior Cole Kissick each had two goals.

"That kind of scoring, spread among nine or 10 players, is the story of this season so far," Beaudoin said. "Our second line has some talented kids, and while other teams might be wondering where Cole or Danny is, they're getting scored on with those guys. If opponents key on one player, we just have someone else who can score. And, we've got these 6-foot monsters up and down the lineup, which is a great thing for such a small town."

Each team has nine seniors on its roster, but the Skippers have more experience, while Archbishop Williams is relatively young up front.

"We lost a lot last year, with 13 kids graduating, all of whom were serious contributors," said Rotondi. "But our defense actually returned a lot of veterans, so that's what has been carrying us. Today, we knew, with Cohasset's many shooters, we had to try and match up with them, and that was a problem. At other times we simply had a lack of communication defensively, and that hurt us."

"For the most part, this is the most experienced group we've had in probably ten years," said Beaudoin. "We have tons of returning veterans, and even our bench players have been molded in the system. Even our backup goalie has seen plenty of minutes. We also try to develop their versatility, like having our goal scorers play some defense, because when you get to the playoffs you never know when you'll need them there. This is our ninth game, and we haven't missed a beat, with just that loss to our cousins from sunny California."

Senior catcher Theresa DelGuidice is another solid player and captain from the Hull side.

"Theresa is phenomenal behind the plate," Dunn said. "She's got a strong arm and is a great leadoff hitter. She's a quick thinker, just a fantastic all-around player."

Cohasset's Kristin Timothy is a senior captain and third baseman.

"Kristin is a two-year starter at third base and if we need her we can bring her in as a relief pitcher."

Another captain is Cohasset senior Sarah Twinney.

"Sarah's a two-year starter and two-year captain," Dunn said. "Kathleen and Sarah are both two-year captains. Sarah shows great leadership and dedication to the team. She's very responsible and a good leader on the field."

Sophomore first baseman Tori Ross (Cohasset) is a second-year varsity player who has done well in a pinch.

"She was thrown in there when the girl playing there got hurt," Dunn said. "We threw her in there and she's learning it quickly. She fits right in. She's doing fantastic."

In the outfield, sophomore Nicky Tolosko has been a key.

"Nicky is a two-year starter and she runs the outfield," Dunn said of the centerfielder. "You can count on her to get to anything in the outfield. It's shocking that she's so good as a sophomore. She's our No. 3 hitter. She takes on a lot of responsibility. She's a great team leader. As she grows older, she'll take over."

The two other outfield spots are still up for grabs, according to Dunn.

"We've got a freshman and junior fighting for right field," she said. "Libby Lydon is the freshman. Senior Rebecca Claffey and junior Lexi Angus are fighting for left field. They're all doing a good job. It's a good battle."

Amanda Ipello is a sophomore who is currently out with an injury, but the two-year player will be in the mix for first base when she returns."

For Dunn, this is her first year at the helm.

"This is my first year as head coach of the varsity," she said. "I was the JV coach at Hull five years ago. Then I was a varsity assistant. I know a lot of the girls. I've worked with them in the youth program. I've watched them grow up."

Dunn said things are working well.

"It's been great for both schools," Dunn said. "The girls all work together and have a great team spirit."

great," Beaudoin said. "They do a great job in front of Connor in net."

This week's Chowda Cup is another set of games that can only help in the long run, regardless of the final scores.

"Catholic Memorial, Braintree and Norwell are part of it," he said. "And we still have BC High, Medfield and Beverly. It's pretty intense. These games ramp you up for the playoffs."

Also playing in the Chowda Cup are Marshfield, Hanover, Archbishop Williams and Scituate.

For Beaudoin, this season has been a blast.

"This team is a joy to be around," he said. "They are the most positive, upbeat team I've ever coached. When they make mistakes they just go right on to the next play. This is one of my favorite teams to coach in my ten years."

For the Skippers, freshman Emily Moy has led the way.

"Emily shot the low round against Braintree and Hingham," Sweeney said. "She shot a +1. She's pretty solid. She's done a nice job."

In the No. 2 slot, Kiley Crough has been solid.

"She's 2-1," Sweeney said. "She's a freshman. She's been playing well. Brooke Driscoll is also 2-1. She's a freshman playing No. 3."

In the No. 4 spot, sophomore Katie McKeon has won the spot.

"Sophie is doing well," Sweeney said. "She's a captain. She's shown good leadership."

Sophomore Charlotte Morrison is handling the No. 5 slot, starting out 2-0-1, while the No. 6 spot has been a little in flux for the moment.

"We've been rotating a couple of kids there," Sweeney said. "We have a sophomore, Maggie Queenan, who has not played matches yet. She's an experienced golfer. It will be good to have her back."

As for where the team may finish this season, Sweeney isn't sure.

"It's hard to say how other teams develop," he said. "We just want to make the tournament."

With the weather, it was an interesting pre-season. "Because of the snow we didn't get on the course until the day of the first match," Sweeney said. "We were able to hit in the simulators in Hingham," Sweeney said. "We also went to the range a few times. So far so good."

Sweeney said the team has benefited a lot from having Kerrigan-Johnson coaching.

Poetry readings at AuthorTalks

By Joan Kovach
Special to the Mariner

"What you always — or sometimes — have wanted to ask about poetry" is the topic that poets Fred Marchant, Martha Collins, Nancy Hewitt and Suzanne Berger will be on hand to discuss at a reading of their poems on Sunday afternoon April 26 at 4 p.m. at the Paul Pratt.

■ Fred Marchant, Professor Emeritus of English at Suffolk University, is the founding director of Day One: The Suffolk University Poetry Project. His books include "Tipping Point" winner of 1993 Washington Prize, "From a Corner of My Yard," poetry by the Vietnamese poet Tran Dang Khoa, and he has edited "Another World Instead: The Early Poems of William Stafford, 1937-1947," a collection that centers on the poetry Stafford wrote as a conscientious objector during World War II. Marchant's new book, "The Day Later," will be available in 2016.

■ Martha Collins is the author of seven books of poetry, including "Day Unto Day," "White Papers," and "Blue Front." She has also published four earlier collections of poems and three collections of co-translated Vietnamese poetry — most recently "Black Stars: Poems by Ngo Tu Lap." She founded the creative writing program at UMass-Boston and taught for 10 years at Oberlin College, where she continues to serve as editor-at-large for FIELD magazine. Collins lived and wrote in Cohasset for a few years, and is currently a resident of

■ Suzanne E. Berger teaches an advanced poetry-writing seminar at Lesley University. She has won a Pushcart Prize, a Somerville Council on the Arts Grant, and residencies at the MacDowell Colony. Her books include two poetry collections, "These Rooms" and "Legacies" and a prose memoir, "Horizontal Woman."

■ Nancy Hewitt's poems have appeared in Prism Review, Cumberland Poetry Review, Poet Lore, The Comstock Review, Mid-American Review. She won the Nancy Hargrove Editor's Prize for Poetry from Jabberwock Review and has been a Pushcart Prize nominee. The chapbook "HEARD" is her first book of poems. In 2014 she was named Poet Laureate of Swampscott.

Jean Birmann

COHASSET — Jean M. R. Birmann (nee Meacock), age 90, passed away peacefully on Thursday, April 9 from complications of advanced dementia.

She was born November 3, 1924 in Hong Kong to British school teachers Harold and Ethel Meacock. At age 2 she moved to Carrickmacross, County Monaghan, Ireland when her parents became headmasters of the Viscount Weymouth Grammar School. Jean's passion for music began at an early age, and she became highly accomplished on both the violin and the piano. She studied music at Trinity College in Dublin, and subsequently earned two teacher's diplomas (Licentiate of Trinity College, London, for the violin, and Associate of the Royal College of Music) and a piano Performer's Diploma (London Royal College of Music). After teaching music in Llangollen, Wales and then at the renowned Bedales School in Petersfield, England, her spirit of adventure brought her to Montreal, Canada, where she taught music at Lachine High School and met her future husband, Gerhard Birmann. They married and relocated to Newton, MA in 1960, then moved to Hingham, MA in 1964 and Cohasset, MA in 1973.

Jean was a devoted wife and a loving mother. She was also a much sought-after substitute teacher in many of the local schools on the South Shore of Boston. She advocated passionately for arts education and took great delight in opportunities to introduce children to classical music. She taught piano and often provided piano accompaniment for school choral and drama productions. She loved fiercely, and extended her loyalty, support and compassion to family, friends and strangers alike. Jean was deeply loved and highly respected by all. She will be deeply missed by her children, extended family and friends.

She is survived by her three children, Brenda M. Birmann of Brighton, MA, Michael R. Birmann of Arlington, MA, and Christine C. Nichols of Jacksonville, FL, her son-in-law R. Charles Nichols, M.D., daughter-in-law Katherine Clinton, brothers Ralph Meacock and George Meacock and sisters-in-law June Meacock and Daphne Meacock, all of the United Kingdom (UK), grandchildren Alexandra, Graham and Colin Nichols and Stepan Birmann, as well as many nieces, nephews and cousins in the US, UK and Germany. She lost her brother, Donald Meacock of the UK, in 2014.

A memorial service is being planned for this summer to allow for distant family and friends to be present.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Jean's memory to the Alzheimer's Association [on-line: http://www.alz.org/join_the_cause_donate.asp, select 'tribute/memorial donation' option; by phone: 1-800-272-3900; by mail: send a check payable to the Alzheimer's Association, P.O. Lloyd M. Huskins Jr.

BARNSTABLE — Lloyd McLean Huskins Jr., of Centerville, and formerly of Cohasset, age 68, loving father of Larissa Huskins Wilson, cherished "grand-daddy" of Abby and Ryan Wilson and beloved partner of Robyne Ryley, passed away suddenly on April 5, 2015.

Lloyd had been spending the winter months in the warmth of Marco Island, Fla., enjoying fishing and boating.

His passion for fishing and the open water was contagious.

He loved to captain his boat and take friends and family out for cruises in the Marco River in the winter and the waters of the South Shore/Boston Harbor in the summer.

An over the road professional driver, Lloyd enjoyed driving not only for work but also for pleasure. He looked forward to the yearly trek to and from Florida. He spent many years driving across the country along side his younger brother and friend Tim. He also worked as an Arborist for the Cohasset Tree and Park department.

Lloyd served in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War from 1965-1969.

Lloyd was predeceased by his parents, Helen (Murphy) and Lloyd Sr., and his brother Tim. Lloyd will be greatly missed by his family, his daughter, Larissa and son-in-law Jimmy Wilson; his grandchildren Abby and Ryan Wilson; his partner, Robyne Ryley; his sister-in-law, Jane Huskins; his niece, Emily Huskins Burke; and nephew, Jonathan Huskins; his former wife, Jerilyn Huskins and all his extended family and friends.

A funeral Mass was held at St. Anthony's Church in Cohasset on Monday, April 20, 2015, at 10 a.m.

A memorial donation can be made to the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

GIMME SHELTER

All grown up and full of fun

By Tammy Hatch

M eet Baby, a 3-year-old short-haired all gray cat with strong resemblance to the Russian Blue. Ironically, her name contradicts her physical appearance.

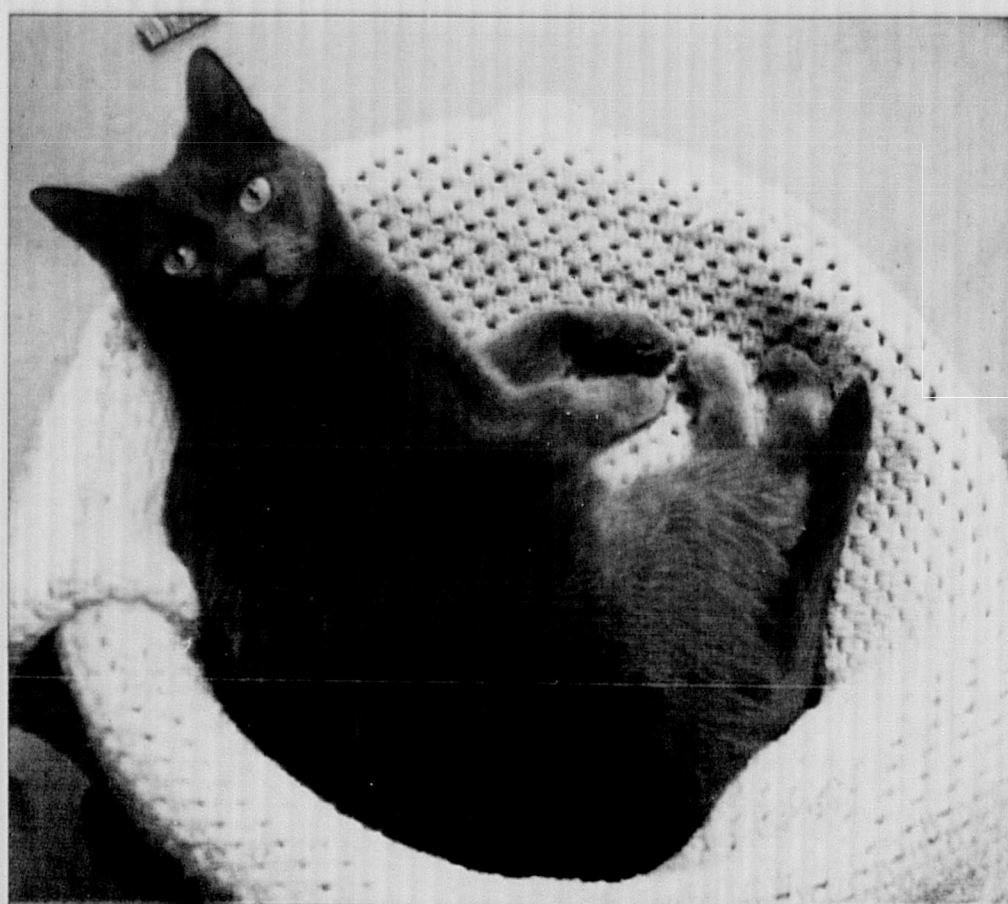

Three years ago Baby was adopted as a kitten from our shelter and was surrendered back to us after the passing of her owner. Baby is a robust girl with strong musculature, elegance and has grown up to be an incredibly attractive young woman. She's very energetic and likes to run around the room and jump onto and off of the chairs, shelves and windowsills.

Baby is the kind of cat who holds her own. She will invite herself onto your lap where she'll curl up and purr, but just as quickly will say "okay that's enough I want to play now" and will jump off your lap. Baby is fiercely independent and needs someone who will respect her space and her need to have to have things on her own terms.

While she likes her down time, she also likes to play just as much. Her favorite is the laser light, which she will chase around the room tirelessly. Baby would do well in a large indoor home where she can exert herself fully. She should be an only pet and would not make suitable playmate for young children who may not understand her quick switch in gears.

Spay Waggin

The Animal Rescue League's Spay Waggin will be at the Shelter this coming Monday, April 27th. If you'd like to reserve a spot to spay or neuter your cat, please call the Shelter at

Empty Bowls

Hunger highlighted in special event

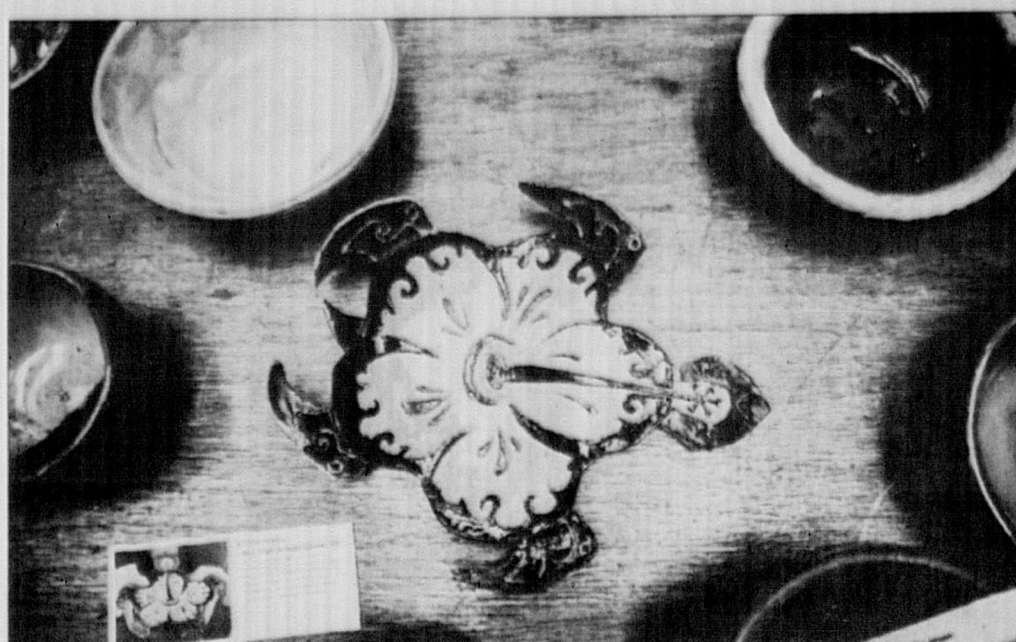

'Empty Bowls' were made by art students at Cohasset, Hingham, Braintree and Hull high schools, parents and local artists.

At the event, guests picked a bowl and had soup and bread; proceeds benefit Project Bread and Outreach Inc. There was also a silent auction, music, and speakers on hunger including Torey Hart of Cohasset.

SATURDAY

Cohasset Maritime Institute Open

Registration is open for seasonal summer adult rowing that starts May 17 and runs through Aug. 17. To register, visit rowcmi.com.

For those who want to learn more about CMI, talk rowing, see the boathouse and meet other rowers, CMI will host an Open House on Saturday, April 25 from 9 to 11 a.m. at the CMI boathouse at the foot of Parker Avenue. Park at Lightkeepers and walk over the little bridge to the boathouse.

If you are new to rowing or are uncertain about a summer-long commitment, join the Learn To Row program (LTR), which takes place the first two weekends of the season, May 16-17 and 23-24. The fee for LTR is $75, which can be applied to the full season fee of $375.

CMI is a non-profit community organization open to all and has been teaching rowing skills to youth and adults for about 20 years. For more information about CMI, visit rowcmi.com, search Cohasset Maritime Institute on Facebook, or email row_cm1@comcast.net.

COHASSET RECREATION

Enjoy a spring day
in the Big Apple

Gather some friends and enjoy a spring day in New York City. A deluxe motor coach leaves Cohasset Town Hall at 6 a.m. on Saturday, May 9 and arrives in New York City at approximately 10:30 a.m. The bus has a Midtown drop off near Rockefeller Center and pick up at 7 p.m. sharp behind St. Patrick's Cathedral. Youth under 18 must be accompanied by an adult. Fee: $49 per person. The Recreation Department can provide suggestions for possible activities to engage in but ultimately the fun of New York City is all up to you.

Rockefeller Center is home to over 40 restaurants, more than 100 shops, and countless attractions. Take in a show—get up to 50 percent off ticket prices at the TKTS booth at the Marriott Marquis Hotel in Times Square. Treat your family to a horse and carriage ride through Central Park. Teens would enjoy the virtual tour of NYC located on the second floor of the Empire State Building. And if you haven't had enough of a bus ride—you can see the City and the sights by taking the Gray Line Buses with unlimited hop-on/hop-off.

It's the perfect itinerary for fun and fresh air while you enjoy all that Manhattan has to offer, and someone else does the driving. Space is limited. Sign up at cohasstrec.com.

When it comes to selling houses,
three things count:

location,

location

and search rankings

Over 90% of home buyers begin their search online.

Jon Krause, President of Gambino Realtors, knew this key fact and he also knew he needed help with his own digital marketing. So he used services from our Propel product suite to handle his company's entire online presence. Our Propel product suite services optimized organic and paid search efforts and in just one month, improved website search rankings from 80-100 to the top 11 on the coveted first page of major search engines. Traffic from those searches surged 60%. Now, when house hunters begin their search online, they begin finding Gambino everywhere they look.

There are more than 10,000 small business owners across the U.S. using services from our Propel product suite.

12:31 p.m. Beechwood St. and Norman Todd Road, outside fire. Fire in the brush across from the little pond, nobody around it. This is private property and the homeowner is there with a hose; permit fire, no issue.

1:14 p.m. Chief Justice Cushing Hwy. and Pond St., disabled motor vehicle. Vehicle ran out of gas and will be pushing it out of the way. Express on scene.

4:34 p.m. Lamberts Lane, traffic hazard. Early model Toyota Camry came speeding down the street and almost hit his kids. Now parked on the golf course. He is going to attempt to make contact with party. Party has been spoken to.

5:07 p.m. Crocker Lane, Sports Complex, medical aid. 11-year-old was choking, he got it out. Someone did give him the Heimlich.

6:03 p.m. Chief Justice Cushing Hwy., Aubuchon, well being check. Across the street from the hardware store someone sitting in his older dark blue SUV parked near the trees, sleeping in the car. Concerned he may be living out of his car. Units clear, that gentleman is conducting business at the car dealership.

6:15 p.m. Avalon Drive, medical aid.

10:49 p.m. Chief Justice Cushing Hwy., motor vehicle stop; citation issued.
